An exceptional complication after the percutaneous injection of an iodine based contrast medium into the biliary tract is subcapsular hepatic hematoma. Retrospectively 20 cases of this complication have been reported in the literature. Mostly patients were asymptomatic, but in some patients the clinical symptoms were severe. In contrast to other authors, none of our patients developed major ascites. In four patients a clinical rebleeding was observed within a mean of 1.5 months. All patients recovered.A methodological framework for policy analysis: a review of policy analysis approaches. This paper reviews the literature on methodological approaches for policy analysis. It covers the major methodologies, classes of questions they address, the attributes of the methods, the epistemology they espouse, and implications for the study of social policy. The paper is an outcome of a workshop on methods held at the National Research Council (NRC), Ottawa in 1996. It is divided into six parts: methods and policy analysis, methods for social policy analysis, methods for studying health policy, methods for studying educational policy, methods for studying policy on the environment, and methods for studying public health policy.Q: Unbind mouseout from element I'm attempting to hide a link within a div when the mouse leaves the div but when I do so, the mouseout event also fires.
